>
> Before the play, our group did a breathing exercise together: we breathed in slowly for four seconds and out for four seconds. I also drank some water and looked at my script one last time. When I walked on stage, I was still nervous, but after my first line, I started to relax.
>
> The play was much more exciting than our rehearsals. The audience laughed at the funny parts and clapped for a long time at the end. My parents were proud of me. Now I'm not as frightened as I was before. Our next performance is on 12 December, and I can't wait!
